

THE CHURCH AND STATE.

It is an encouraging sign of the times that many laymen in the Catholic church do not agree with the protest of the three Catholic bishops against the Bennett law. An American Catholic, or any other Catholic, who has the progressive spirit about him, does not object to the spirit of the law. He can reasonably object to it without in effect saying that he is opposed to the public school system of the United States, and this he is not willing to do.

One day last week a number of Catholic business and professional men were interviewed on the bishops' protest, and among them were the following who have reputations not confined to the county or the city of Milwaukee.

Ex-Mayor Black, a German: "The Catholic will not obey the Bishop's advice. This is a free country and we shall vote as we please. We do not come to this country to have Bishops or Popes dictate or advise us how we shall vote."

Assemblyman Keogh: "I do not think the Irish and other English-speaking Catholics are interested in the Bishop's pronouncement."

Ex-Secretary of State Doyle: "Those who are strongly in favor of the law, whether Catholics or not, will continue to support it."

Register in Probate Donnelly: "The recommendations of any action purely political by the church authorities is an unprecedented thing it is impossible to estimate just what influence it will have."

For much Quinn: "I consider it to no sense binding upon the Catholics of the state, and no intelligent Catholic will feel bound by it. I regret that such a document has been issued."

H. J. Fitzgerald: "I question whether the Catholics of the state generally will take the advice of the bishops in political matters."

The German Catholics go farther in protesting against the law than do the Irish Catholics or the Lutherans. There are thousands of the latter who will be satisfied with the law when it is amended so that the "district" feature of it is modified. In regard to the compulsory teaching of English twelve weeks in a year, very many Lutherans do not raise objections, providing, only, that they have an opportunity to obtain the English instruction when they see fit. But with the German Catholics bishops it is otherwise. The gist of the law is this: "The law does not say that children shall not go to church schools, nor does it say what the church schools shall or shall not teach. It simply says that children shall, for a specified time in each year, receive instruction in reading, writing, arithmetic, and United States history, in the English language."

Take out the word "English," and the German bishops might often their opposition to the Bennett law, but the very word seems offensive to them, and therefore they do not support any compulsory teaching of the language. The law is a very liberal one, as all our Catholic friends will note, for if the parochial schools furnish this English instruction the law does not touch them; and if they do not furnish this instruction it does not touch them. But the law does one thing which is wise indeed, "it does interfere with the power of the bishops to prevent children from attending other schools than those controlled by the church, unless the bishops choose, of their own volition, to introduce in the parochial schools the branches of secular instruction which are prescribed in the law."

LET THE LAW STAND.

In advocating a system which would avoid the contrasts of success and failure in spots, but which through the principle of local option and high license would attain the greatest practicable degree of prohibition and restraint in every part of a state, the Tribune claims to be a better temperance paper than those which contend for the permanent abiding law, which all experience in Iowa shows will prove ineffectual wherever public sentiment is against it.

Unquestionably prohibition must have greatly diminished its effectiveness and its attendant evils in the seventy odd counties in Iowa where the public sentiment has caused the law to be enforced, but the Tribune would caution its Iowa readers not to put too much stress on the statistical record of crime as proving the exact degree of benefit achieved from this cause. Crime has greatly decreased in Iowa under prohibition, as it has also in the same years in adjoining states, and notably in Minnesota and Nebraska, under high license. —Chicago Tribune.

The Chicago Tribune is engaged in the effort to work up a sentiment in Iowa against the present prohibition law. Because in some counties the law is a nullity on account of the defiant attitude of the saloons and the moral cowardice of the authorities, there are some who want the law repealed and a high license adopted. But if the liquor influence will not pay decent attention to laws prohibitory it will not regard a high license law with the necessary restrictions accompanying it. The law of Iowa has done much to lessen crime in that state. It has made a wonderful decrease in drunkenness. It has cleaned out all the groggeries in the rural towns of the state. It has implanted a temperance sentiment in the state that is doing efficient work. The law may not be doing sufficient work, but no law can or will do perfect work, no matter what the nature of it may be. Any person of common observation or ordinary intelligence will admit that there will be less drunkenness and fewer crimes in a prohibitory state than in a state where low or even high license exists. And as the object of temperance legislation is to either lessen or wipe out entirely drink and its attendant crimes and other misfortunes, it would be folly to repeal a law which is the most effective in doing this work.

Senator Allison is right when he says that the law has done well in a majority of cases, that it has been useful in accomplishing much good, and that it would be a dissonance to the state to repeal it.

Colonel J. P. Sanford, of Iowa, who has trotted all over the globe more times than he has fingers, says he does not believe all the stories Kennan tells of Russian convicts. In an interview the other day in Chicago, when some questions were put to him this report was published:

"I was over all Russia in 1872," he continued, "and saw no such brutal treatment as Kennan pictures. It is true that mistakes are made there in punishing convicts, but these may be found in every country. In Iowa I once saw a hospital patient dogged because he would not take some medicine. Suppose a clever Russian went through all the penitentiaries and public institutions in the United States, could he not find exactly such incidents as Kennan actually found in Russia? I was in Russia half of last year, but saw no atrocities perpetrated upon the criminals. Kennan's article has, in reality, injured the friendly relations which formerly existed between this country and the land of the Czar. In 1872 I was given royal passes and shown all the attractions of Russia. I was treated with no favors. When I asked for an explanation I was told that Russia could not be very friendly to people who wrote such sensational truths about the country which he intended to Uncle Sam during the late unpleasantness. In this feeling I heartily agree with the Russians, for I think they have been misrepresented."

Colonel Sanford does not do Mr. Kennan justice. The colonel never went to Siberia to inspect the prisons at Kara. Here is the place where the worst barbarities are witnessed, and the statements made by Mr. Kennan are substantiated by London correspondents who have at different times visited Kara to inquire into the exile system. Besides this, there has been no Russian authority to come forward and prove that Mr. Kennan's statements are untrue.

Frank Cunningham, who is a tax collector at Richmond, Virginia, has made all necessary arrangements for good singing at his funeral. He has sung at 385 funerals during the last two years. He intends to sing certain songs into a phonograph and let the instrument officiate at the ceremonies preceding his burial. He has chosen "Home of the Soul" and "Good Night" as the songs to be delivered at that time. Time and discoveries are bringing about a very satisfactory condition of things when a dead man can sing what he pleases and as he pleases at his own funeral. He will never be late and will not sing anything that doesn't please him.

To the democrats who are claiming Iowa and Ohio in 1892, the Philadelphia Press furnishes them food for reflection: In 1886 the republican plurality in Minnesota total 2,483 and the democratic and ex-republican free trade organs were elated over the prospects of making the state surely democratic. But two years later the state came up with its 38,107 republican plurality for president. The result will be the same in Iowa, where temporary causes which brought about the defeat of last fall have disappeared.

FUR, FIN, AND FEATHERS.

Four men recently killed 1,000 geese on Noman Island, Colusa county, California, when their ammunition gave out.

Blue fish have been caught in liberal quantities off Long Island for the last few days, which is hundreds of miles farther north than they are generally found this time of the year.

The experiment of feeding the young salmon by dropping them in confinement until large enough to take care of themselves, that is now being carried on at the United States salmon breeding establishment at Orland, Me., under the charge of Charles G. Atkins, is proving a success.

The destruction of game in Europe goes on apace. The Duc de Chartres, Prince Leopold of Bavaria, the Princes Philip and Augustus of Saxe-Coburg-Kohary, Lord de Grey, and Count Karolyi have killed in Bohemia during the last month 14,356 partridges, 6,818 hares, 3,493 pheasants, 31 roebucks, and 800 head of miscellaneous game.

"Competent authority," says the Troy Press, "estimates that in five years the number of deer in the Adirondacks has doubled. This result has been brought about by the vigilance of the State game protectors and the efforts of sportsmen's clubs in the region. The strict enforcement of the game laws will soon make the Adirondacks a paradise for the hunter, and we are glad to note an increasing purpose on the part of the authorities under the law to prevent poaching and punish lawlessness."

The collection of North American animals made by Lord Londale in 1886, during his trip from the Winnipeg to the Arctic ocean and back, is now arranged, and will shortly be removed to Lower Canada for permanent abiding place. The collection includes more than a dozen magnificent moose heads, twelve caribou and musk ox heads, and six Rocky Mountain goats, one bison, and several polar bears. Nearly 500 birds are mounted in four large cases. The first include the eagles and northern divers; another consists chiefly of the larger owls; a third, owls and hawks, and the fourth is more miscellaneous.

A persistent endeavor is being made by the Italian government to improve the quality of horseflesh in Italy. Italy has just bought Melton, the winner of the Derby in 1888, for $20,000, and is now negotiating for the purchase of other thoroughbreds in Germany and England.

A Brooklyn Mad-Man Attempts to Throw His Wife's Corpse Out of a Window.

ALFRED RIGGS BRUTALLY MURDERS HIS HOUSEKEEPER.

Startling Tragedy Enacted in the City of Washington—Other Crimes and Criminals.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—An atrocious murder was perpetrated last night, with Alfred Riggs and was regarded as his wife. Riggs is one of the toughest characters in Washington. While the woman was alone last night Riggs was sent to enter the house and make his way to her room.

Precisely what followed will probably never be known. Screams of "Murder!" "Police!" soon came from the room and attracted the attention of the neighbors. A tenant on the lower floor, Warren Johnson, rushed up-stairs, and, throwing his weight against the door, burst it open. As he entered Riggs held the woman by the throat on the floor, while with his disengaged hand he was thrusting a knife into every portion of her body with the frenzy of a madman.

Johnson rushed at the assassin and hurled him into a corner, from which he soon arose and made for the peace-maker, apparently with the intention of killing him. He slashed and stabbed him several times, but would not doubt have killed him, but the approach of others on the stairway brought him to his senses. He jumped from the window and escaped.

The woman was cut in as many as twenty-two places and died soon afterward. Johnson received four very bad cuts, one extending four inches up the back, two on the left arm, and one through the palm of the hand. The murderer has not been captured.

REFUSED TO BURY HIS DEAD.

A Brooklyn Man Attempts to Hurl His Wife's Corpse from a Window.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Saturday afternoon Mrs. Catharine Miller died at her home in Brooklyn. Sunday Miller went home for the first time since his wife's death and there found his five children, one of them a 2 weeks old baby, crying around the bed on which lay the dead body of their mother. The father knelt beside the bed and began to abuse his dead wife for dying and leaving him with the five children. He then began to curse the children, who became frightened and began to cry bitterly, begging their father to give them something to eat. This enraged the man, who again turned to the corpse and cursed it in violent language. He then seized the body and shouted that if the city did not bury it he would throw it out of the window. His shouts attracted the attention of the neighbors, who hurried to the Miller apartment just as the man was about to throw the body through the window. Miller is locked up. The city will bury his wife.

BROKE OUT OF PRISON.

A Privileged Convict Effects a Wholesale Jail Delivery at Schenectady, N. Y.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 17.—A general jail delivery took place here last night. Joe Furnan, a man whose term would have expired to-day, and who had been granted the "freedom of jail" by the sheriff, procured a number of saws and handed them over to John Griffin, James Powden, Charles Mitchell and John Burns, in jail awaiting trial for the Bechtel robbery and murder in Scotland last fall and Fred Hicks, awaiting trial for grand larceny. The six men escaped about 11 o'clock last night.

BRUTALITY TO THE BLIND.

Supt. King of the Philadelphia Asylum, Deposed and Arrested.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 17.—As the result of the investigation by the board of managers of the Blind Asylum, during which the boys testified of ill-treatment, scarcity of food and unnatural hours, the superintendent, Supt. King, Mr. King was suspended yesterday and arrested on charges preferred by Thomas W. Barlow, of the State board of charities, and John W. Gaines, chief of boys ill-treated. King was held in $2,000 bail.

Probable Murder.

CHICAGO, March 17.—The body of a man was found in a ditch in a sparsely populated portion of Jefferson this morning. From a long cut in the head the blood had flowed profusely. It is believed by the police that the man was murdered. The place where he was found was not near a railroad, so it is not thought that he could have been struck by a train.

Nothing was found on the body that would lead to the victim's identification. The man was evidently about 50 years old. He wore a gray beard. A Masonic pin was found in one of his pockets.

A Defaulting County Clerk Caught.

HILLSDALE, Mich., March 17.—S. W. Yeagley, the defaulting clerk of this county, who left here Feb. 3, has been captured by Sheriff Banker and is now lodged in jail here. The sheriff received word that Yeagley was in Chicago and left for that city. On arriving there he discovered that the man had just gone to Canada, where he caught him.

More of Commander McCalla's Cruelty. BROOKLYN, N. Y., March 17.—Before the McCalla court of inquiry Quartermaster McCalla testified to having been kept in double irons all one night for some slight breach of discipline. Private Glynn testified he was confined five days in double irons because he was found off his post.

Another Tascott Turns Up.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 17.—Joseph O. Minary and Robert L. Howard, who were arrested in a watch, have been arraigned and committed to trial. Minary is unknown to the police here and told the magistrate he was the long-wanted Tascott.

Two Children Poisoned.

GREENSBURG, Pa., March 17.—Two children of Mrs. John Cline, aged respectively 10 and 12 years, ate freely of a sweet-scented root found in the garden, and in a short time were taken violently ill. One of them died in great agony in less than two hours, and the other, while still living, is not expected to recover. The root is said to have been wild parsnips.

Take Care of Your Eyes.

Dr. B. MINNER, the eminent optician of Detroit, Mich., will visit every town in this county during the winter. Any one suffering with weak eyes, or eyes affected by inferior glasses, should not fail to see him. Orders left for his office will be promptly attended to. No extra charge for examining or visiting patients at their homes.

AN INSIDIOUS ENEMY.

There is possibly no disease that attacks the human system that is more insidious in its approach than Catarrh. Very few appreciate that a slight cold and a heavy dull feeling in the upper part of the head leads to anything serious, or are disposed to treat for prompt cure. Many a poor victim whose life has been made miserable for years can look back to a time when if he had considered Catarrh as all a dangerous disease or a matter of serious difficulty, could have easily cured it.

Of Catarrh it can truly be said that a stitch in time saves nine. Many diseases that are low cased under the general head of "colds" and "con-sump-tive" are generally preceded by heavy Catarrh.

It is the first symptoms of these diseases so harmless in their apparent effects, and yet so serious in their results, that should make the word Catarrh a household dread, and its earliest symptoms feared and provided for, as would be the most contagious diseases.

Accompanying the treatment of Rev. T. P. Childs, who has become famous the country over for having twenty years ago established the fact that Catarrh could be cured, and whose treatment is now known as "Childs' Catarrh Cure," is a Cold Inhabiting Balm, which cures for a cold in the head, bronchitis, croup, a sore throat, or any disease of the larynx, is wonderful in its results. Rev. T. P. Childs, of Troy, Ohio, has become so widely known in connection with this Catarrh cure, and has cured so many thousands of people, that to suggest Catarrh troubles suggests Rev. T. P. Childs.

The discovery of his cure for Catarrh and diseases of the Throat and Lungs has attracted great attention. Leading men everywhere publicly state that Childs' treatment has cured them or their families of Catarrh or Throat or Lung difficulties, among them clergymen, physicians, lawyers, merchants, bankers and business men. All who have personally investigated the facts are satisfied that Mr. Childs has discovered a certain, positive and permanent cure for these diseases, and when properly used never fails even in the most desperate cases. Thoroughly honorable and characteristic manner he publishes the names and addresses of some he has cured that any who desire may inquire of the patients themselves what Childs' treatment has done for them.

Many who do not receive our paper would doubtless be very thankful should our readers call the attention of such to the advertisement of Mr. Childs' Catarrh and Consumption are the twin enemies of the race, and any means of relief is a heaven-sent blessing. Childs' treatment may be relied on as an effective and certain cure for Catarrh, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, and you may recommend it to your friends with every confidence. None may feel any hesitancy in placing their case in Mr. Childs' hands for treatment.

The Progress of Disease. We so unwillingly admit the progress of disease, fall a ready prey to the grim destroyer whose insidious approach is subtle progress, and unseen workings, develop and fatal results. Let us be warned in time lest it be "too late."

Are You Sure It Is Consumption? Many thousands fully believe they or their friends are being hurried toward the grave by that terrible disease Consumption, and are being treated for that disease when they have only Catarrh in some of its many types; the symptoms in many forms of these diseases are quite similar and can easily be mistaken. Catarrh, unassuming in its character and beginning, neglected, develops and spreads, and in time poisons the vital organs until it is no longer "only Catarrh," but some disease that gives but little hope of health or life. We do not claim to cure Consumption, but are fully convinced from the results of our daily practice that we can save and restore to health many who now feel their case to be hopeless.

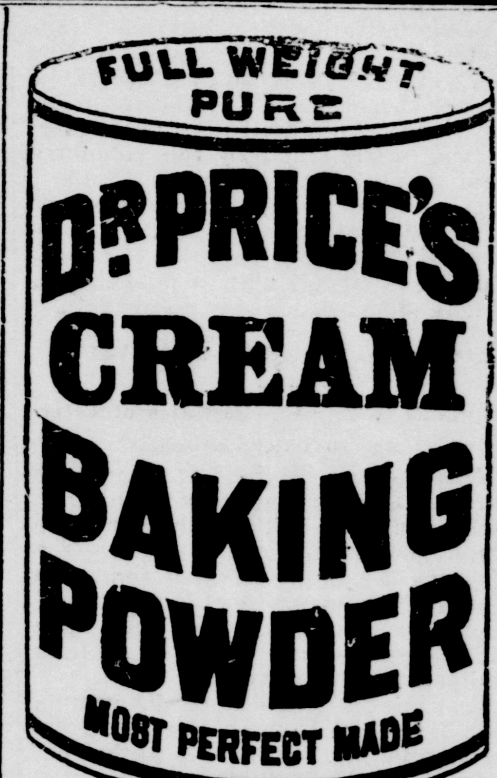

Danger Signals. Do you take cold easily? Have you a cold in the head that does not get better? Have you a hacking cough? Is your throat affected? Are you troubled with hoarseness? Shortness of the throat? Difficulty of breathing? Have you pain in the head between and above the eyes? A sense of fullness in the head? All the passages of the nose stopped up? Is your breath foul? Have you lost all sense of smell? Are you troubled by yawning? Spitting? Weak, listless eyes? Dullness or dimness of the head? Dryness of the throat? Is your voice hoarse or rough? Is your voice difficult in talking? Have you an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages, which must be either blown from the nose, or dropped back behind the head, or hawked or snuffed backward to the throat? Singing or roaring, or other noises in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing?

If so, You Have Catarrh. Some have all these symptoms, others only a few. Some of these symptoms indicate that the disease has passed from the head and has attacked the throat and bronchial tubes, and is effacing the lungs and other vital organs of the body, and unless the disease is stopped, its ravages will affect and endanger the life. In most cases, Catarrh is only a local disease, and requires only local treatment. But in old or neglected cases, the whole system becomes poisoned by the disease, and then constitutional treatment is necessary to assist in expelling it from the organism.

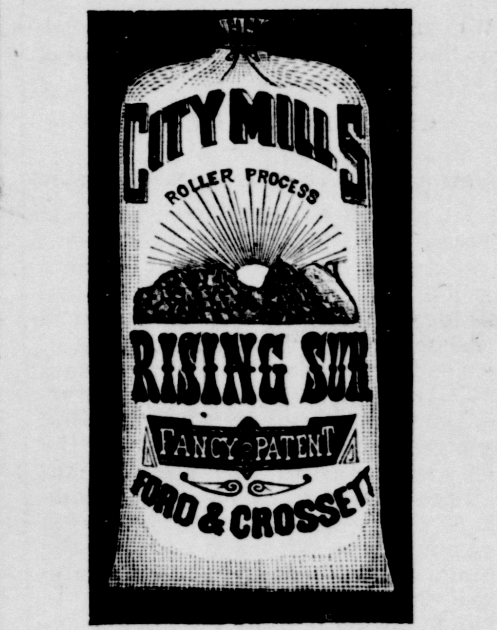

CATARRH IS A DANGEROUS DISEASE, but it can be cured by the use of our Catarrh Specific. Thousands suffer with this disease, and the nature of this almost universal complaint is a constant inflammation or ulceration of the lining membrane of the nasal passages. There are several varieties of Catarrh, with widely different symptoms. The most common and is characterized by an excessive secretion of mucus or matter in the nasal passages, which must either be blown from the nose, or dropped back behind the palate, or is hawked or snuffed backward to the throat.

Other indications are hacking, spitting, weak and inflamed eyes, frequent soreness of the throat, often ringing or roaring or other noises in the ears, more or less impairment of the hearing, loss of smell, memory impaired, dizziness and dimness of the head, and dryness of the nose. All persons thus affected take cold easily. The breath sometimes reveals all around the corruption within, while the patient often loses all sense of smell. The disease advances covertly, until pain in the chest, lungs or bowels startles him; he hacks and coughs, has dyspepsia, liver complaint, and is urged by his doctor to take this or that; perhaps a liver oil is prescribed. Perfectly ridiculous! The foul ulcers in the head cannot be reached by pouring such stuff into the poor jaded stomach. The patient becomes nervous; the voice hoarse and unnatural; he feels disheartened; memory loses its power; judgment his zeal; gloomy forebodings hang overhead; he doubts, yes, he doubts, in such circumstances feel that it would be a relief, and many even do out the thread of life to end their sorrows.

one of them will be sent, and in return you will receive one of the best cook books ever published.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Tom Morrissey belongs to Milwaukee once more. After long parleying he submitted his terms. These were exactly what he knew Manager Cushman would accept.
Tom, it is felt, is the most reliable player the Milwaukee club has ever had. For that reason his numerous friends will be glad to learn of his having been signed again. Griffith is the only one who remains unsigned. Phil Meek, a protege of Lee's, has also been secured by Cushman. He is a pitcher of some promise and hails from Seymour, Ind. In case he should not prove satisfactory he will not be very expensive as he agreed to pay part of his expenses for the beginning.

The greatest cure on earth for pain,
Salmon Oil; sing the refrain.

"You don't to-day, my friend, in this cold wind? I thought you were sick in bed with a cold." He said nothing but smiled a jolly smile and led me to the apothecary's shop, and pointing to a big advertisement of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, said: "Thereby hangs the tale;
that tells the story."

An Independent Candidate.

To the Electors of the City of Janesville:

During my term of office as street commissioner I have worked faithfully for the interests of the city of Janesville and deemed myself entitled to a recompense at the hands of the republican party. A majority of the delegation to the city convention, it seems, thought differently, and discarded me. I do not regard their action, however, as a popular expression, and therefore announce myself as an independent candidate for the office of street commissioner, and respectfully ask for your support and suffrage.

Dated March 12th, 1890.

AN OLD CITIZEN GONE.

Death of Hon. Chas. H. Parker, One of Beloit's Most Prominent Citizens.

From the Beloit Free Press.

Charles H. Parker, president of the Second National Bank of Beloit, died last evening between 10 and 11 o'clock, at the age of 75 years, after a prolonged illness.
He leaves surviving him his widow and one child, L. Holden Parker.

This death removes from our midst one of our most widely known, most prominent and most influential citizens.
He was known of all men and for his good qualities was esteemed of all.

The history of Beloit would almost be his history, so intimately has he been identified with its men and public measures. He was a man of positive convictions, courageous in argument, fearless of opposition, quick to resent, ready to forgive, of noblest impulses, of generous deeds, and of tenderest sympathies. His heart was running over full with the milk of human kindness, and the poor and the needy and the grief-stricken ever found in him a friend and a helper and sympathizer.

The trials and troubles of life came to him in measure equal to most, but he encountered and wrestled with them without any of the heart-hardening and hard endurances so often the sequence of such encounters, and went down slowly to his grave with mind as full of kindest sentiments and heart as full of tenderest emotions toward his fellow men as ever made man close to angels. In all his relations as friend and neighbor and employer, he was one of the best of men, and very many there are who will ever hold him in memory with esteem, love and warmest gratitude. His benefactions were constant and innumerable, and in very truth his left hand knew not what his right hand did. Could all the good he did and tried to do be known there would be none who would not say it was exceeding well that he lived.

He was a man with noblest attributes, with manly feelings, but such failings as we believe the tears of angels will wash away, and such attributes as will insure to him a blessed immortality.

He goes to his grave full of years, and the benison of innumerable friends—in whose hearts his epitaph will be inscribed, "An honest man, the noblest work of God"—will follow him.

The funeral services will be held at his late residence on Tuesday afternoon next, at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Fayette Boyce officiating.

DEATH OF DUANE ARMSTRONG.

An Old Janesville Boy Dies at His New Home in Montana.

At Warm Springs, Deer Lodge county Montana, March 6, 1890, Duane J. Armstrong, of paralytic, aged 45 years.

The deceased was a brother of the editor of this paper, and leaves a wife, mother, and sister in Minnesota to mourn his death. He had many estimable qualities. He was born in Canton, O., Feb.
22, 1845, and passed his childhood and youth in Janesville, Wis. He learned the printer's trade in the Janesville Gazette office, after which he worked at the business in Chicago, St. Louis, San Francisco and New York, and came to Montana in 1877, taking a position with Mr.
Osburne Barlow, who was then editor and proprietor of the Missoulian. In August, 1879, the subject of this brief sketch bought his employer's interest in the concern and continued to publish the paper until March, 1888, when ill health compelled him to a course of the water at Warm Springs hospital.
Death finally claimed him, and his remains were laid away in his grave at Missoula last Sunday. We quote the words engraved on the coffin, "Rest in Peace."
—The Bitter Root (Montana) Eagle.

Deceased was the oldest son of the late Judge James Armstrong, of this city.
The many friends of the family will read the above notice with feelings of sincere regret.

WARMEST EVER KNOWN.

The Past Winter the Warmest in Forty Years.

The three so-called winter months ended were the warmest for forty years, and they will furnish cause for reflection on the part of the meteorologists for some time to come. Various unsatisfactory theories have been advanced to account for the unusual bar-ometrical pressures, to which are closely allied changes of temperature. A continued high barometer off the coast and changes of pressure favorable to the undrag of the heated air of the gulf stream and warmer latitudes are now held to be the principal causes of the abnormal weather, which even the repelition of March blizzard cannot now reduce to the average of even ordinarily warm winters.

Judging from the previous records, the assumption might be made that warm winters occur every ten years, although the figures do not quite carry this out for every decade. Yet 1849-50 was a comparatively warm season, the average being 31 degrees for the three months; 1859-60 was the exception, which, it may be said, proves the rule, as the year showed weather that was below the 40 years' average, the thermometer showing 27.19 degrees.
However, in 1863-70 the records again got above the average, with 30.5 degrees. In 1879-80 the winter, with the exception of this season, was the warmest of the 40 years, the temperature being 34.95 degrees, or about 5 degrees below that of the last three months.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

It was Quietly Celebrated in the City Today.—This Evening's Programme.

To-day is St. Patrick's day and green is the predominating color. It flattered from everybody's button-hole and hung in front of stores. The Ancient Order of Hibernians, preceded by the Bower City band, formed on Milwaukee street and marched to St. Patrick's church, where impressive services were conducted by the Rev. Dean McGinnity.

The two divisions of the A. O. H. led by Chief Marshal John W. Hogan, made a very creditable showing. The day has been very quiet, the parade of the Ancient Order Hibernians being the only demonstration made. To-night the Catholic Literary society give an entertainment of a musical and literary character at Columbia hall, when the Hon.
Anthony Donovan, of Madison, will deliver an address on the "Life and Times of Daniel O'Connell."

FUNERALS.

Fred C. Story, Jr.

The remains of little Fred C. Story, Jr., arrived at 1:55 this afternoon and were taken directly to Oak Hill cemetery where the interment was made. Brief services were conducted at the grave by the Rev. M. C. Hodge, pastor of the Baptist church. Among those who attended, beside the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Story, were Mr. and Mrs. Westfall, of Chicago. Mr. Westfall being a sister of Mrs. Story.

John Danne.

The funeral of the late John Danne was held from St. Mary's church at nine o'clock this morning. The attendance was large, a number of carriages following the remains to St. Mary's cemetery where the burial took place. The bereaved wife and family have the sympathy of many friends in their sorrow.

THE REVIVAL MEETING.

Now In Progress at the Jackson Street Methodist Church.

The revival meeting at the First M. E. church are interesting in numbers and in good works. There will be a six hours meeting Wednesday, commencing at six o'clock in the morning with a sermon by Rev. N. P. Peterson, followed by other services. Every body is invited to attend this meeting. To come and go as they please. Come in their working clothes and remain as long as they can.
This meeting is gotten up for the accommodation of all the people, and services so arranged that it will not disturb the meeting by the coming and going of people. Therefore, everybody is cordially invited, even though they can only spare five or ten minutes; come.

CELEBRATE HIS BIRTHDAY.

The German Lutheran choir perpetrated a surprise on Edmund O. Smith,

The German Lutheran choir perpetrated
a very pleasant surprise on Mr.
Edmund O. Smith Saturday evening, in honor of his birthday. "Ed" is a member of the choir, and his fellow members considered his twenty-first birthday an occasion for a celebration. Ed. was taken completely by surprise. The festivities lasted until a late hour, when the company broke up, all wishing Ed. many happy returns of the day.
